

Almost every day, I listen to K-LOVE Radio on 96.5 FM in the Medford area. We hear songs that have morally-solid lyrics as I drive my 14-year-old son to guitar lessons and my 11-year-old daughter to clarinet lessons. I turn on K-LOVE when I have to work late in the office. There is no other station in our region that provides the same programming. K-LOVE plays music that has intriguing rhythms and instruments that inspire my musical children. K-LOVE plays songs with words that build up teenagers, rather than tear them down. K-LOVE plays short biographies and documentaries about outreach organizations that local young people can get involved in or support. K-LOVE serves an important role in the lives of family trying to raise respectful young people who will grow up to be contributing members of the community. Please do not expand LPFM services. We fear it would risk reducing the translator service to one of the most popular radio stations among Rogue Valley youth, K-LOVE. Thank you so much!
